Revised 1913.

The Yorkshire Archæological Society.

CHURCHYARD INSCRIPTIONS.

In connection with the scheme which has been suggested by the Congress of Archæological Societies for transcribing and preserving the inscriptions on tombstones in the burial grounds attached to churches and chapels, it has been felt that it would be an advantage to those who are willing to take up this work, besides being useful as a record, if a list were published, showing what work has already been accomplished in Yorkshire in this direction; when and by whom the transcripts were made; and in whose possession they now are. It has not been considered desirable to include those burial grounds in which only a comparatively few of the inscriptions have been copied, unless the circumstances are exceptional; but when a burial ground is included in the list and the inscriptions on the monuments and tombstones inside the church or chapel have been copied, this information is added.

Since the issue in 1909 of the preliminary list, which contained the names of 41 burial grounds, some progress has been made, the revised one including 83. No doubt it is still incomplete, the whole of the inscriptions in some churchyards having been copied, of which no record has been sent in, whilst the field for those who are willing to take up the work of transcribing is a wide one. It is satisfactory to note that the number of transcripts in the Society's Library, where they can be conveniently consulted, as well as permanently preserved, has largely increased. This accession is due to the liberal gifts of the Rev. C. V. Collier, F.S.A., and Messrs. J. B. Willans and G. P. Townend. With a view to the revision of the list from time to time, the Council will be glad if any Members who know of a churchyard, the inscriptions in which have been copied and which has been omitted, will communicate the fact, and also if those who are undertaking this work, on the completion of any churchyard, will send particulars to Mr. E. W. Crossley, Dean House, Triangle, Halifax, from whom copies of the directions for recording these inscriptions, as recommended by the Congress, may be obtained.

The Excavations at Ilkley. #70

THE ROMAN ANTIQUITIES COMMITTEE OF THE YORKSHIRE ARCHÆOLOGICAL SOCIETY has resolved to resume, in July, its excavations of the remains of the Roman Fort at Ilkley, and hopes, if possible, to bring the work to a definite conclusion this year.

The excavations of 1920 resulted, it may be remembered, in uncovering the well-preserved foundations of a large store-house or granary, and the greater portion of a building equipped with a hypocaust-room at its west end, and identified as the residence of the Commandant of the Garrison. It is intended in this season to complete the excavation of this 'residence', and to explore the area, hitherto untouched, at the east end of the site, which is likely to yield interesting results and should certainly provide a substantial addition to the plan of the Fort.

The Committee realizes that this is not the most favourable moment at which to appeal for financial support for such a purpose, but several reasons make it imperative not to postpone the work until next season, and trusts that sufficient contributions will be forthcoming to enable its plans to be carried out successfully. The University of Leeds, well aware of the historical importance of this work, has again made a grant from its Research Fund, but it is hoped that it will be possible to raise the sum of £150 from the general public in addition to the University grant of £75. If you have not already found an opportunity of showing your interest in the excavations, we hope that you will do so by contributing now; if you were good enough to subscribe last year, we hope you will see your way to do so again.

Contributions should be sent to the Hon. Treasurer, Mr. F. B. MAUFE, at Woodlands Rise, Ilkley.

(Signed) JOHN PARKER,
President Y.A.S., Chairman Roman Antiquities Committee.

Excavation of the Roman Camps at Cawthorn.

THE ROMAN ANTIQUITIES COMMITTEE OF THE YORKSHIRE ARCHÆOLOGICAL SOCIETY completed their plan of excavation of the Roman Fort at Ilkley, as far as digging was possible, in the summer of 1921. It is hoped to publish the Report within the next twelve months. This year it has been resolved to explore new territory. Except for the coastal fringe, the north-east portion of Yorkshire is virgin ground so far as recent excavation of Roman sites is concerned; and recent developments of the study of Roman Britain have had little connection with the inland portions of this area. There has, indeed, been a section of a Roman road, which formed an important communication, laid bare and preserved. On the road are the Roman Camps at Cawthorn, four miles north-west of Pickering; and it has been decided that a preliminary investigation of this most interesting site and earthworks is worth undertaking. Permission to dig has been granted by Mrs. Mitchelson, of The Hall, Pickering, who owns the site.

A hasty and superficial examination of the westernmost Camp was made fifteen years ago. Nothing worthy of note was discovered; at least no detailed report exists in the records of the Society. But it is the easternmost Camps which appear to offer the most fruitful ground for preliminary trenching. The Camps are shown on the six-inch O.S. sheet, Yorkshire (North Riding), LXXV, S.W. The earthworks are in remarkably good preservation. In recent years they have been covered by fir plantations. During the war the trees were felled. Bracken is now the chief obscuring factor, but does not seem likely to prove a serious hindrance.

EXCAVATION FUND.

May, 1926.

Dear Sir (or Madam):

The excavation of the Roman camps at Cawthorn, which has been proceeding during the past three years, will be continued during the present summer under the supervision of Mr. I. A. Richmond, Craven Fellow in the University of Oxford. The excavation of these camps has shown them to occupy an unique position among Roman fieldworks in this country, and the work done already possesses an international importance.

In addition, the Committee has undertaken a wider programme which includes the excavation of the Roman villa at Langton, and of the camp at Bainbridge, in Wensleydale. The trial excavations already made on the latter site by Messrs. J. L. Kirk, F.S.A., and R. G. Collingwood, F.S.A., have shown that the camp was occupied from the end of the first to the fourth century after Christ. The site is a promising one and is likely to yield valuable historical results

Excavations, both at Langton and Bainbridge, have hitherto been carried out on a small scale, and largely by means of subscriptions raised locally. In order, however, that the necessary funds may be forthcoming for all the sites mentioned, the Committee proposes to institute a general excavation fund, from

EXCAVATIONS AT ROMAN MALTON.

Dear Sir (or Madam):

The work undertaken by Dr. J. L. Kirk, F.S.A., and his collaborators on the extensive Roman remains in Malton and the district has been proceeding for some months, and valuable results have already been obtained. The results of the excavation of the Pottery Kilns at Castle Howard have already been published in separate form, and have afforded an extremely valuable contribution to the knowledge of Roman fabrics in the North of England. As the whole work proceeds the question of further publications is becoming urgent. As is well known, the Yorkshire Archæological Journal is unable to publish more than a part of the researches of its members, and it is therefore proposed to institute a new series—Yorkshire Archæological Society, Roman Series, in which the report on the Castle Howard site will form the first part of a volume on "Roman Malton."

While the task of publication will be undertaken by the Malton Excavation Committee of the Society's Roman Antiquities Committee, the Society has promised an annual subvention towards the cost of the volume in order that
